iCare...

One of the constant challenges of communication we all face today is truly connecting with people. Facebook, Twitter and various other social networks are useful tools in keeping people up to date with what you are doing. Occasionally greater discretion needs to be used to determine just what people need to know but there is no doubt that Facebook especially is assisting people in maintaining contact or perhaps even reconnecting with people who they may have lost touch with. Let me say though that as helpful as the tools may be there is no substitute for a face to face relationship that contains the critical elements essential to life giving friendship. People were created to be in community with one another, to laugh and cry together, to love and irritate one another, to forgive and reconcile with one another.

This month we'll discuss some aspects of the most important relationships we can experience. 2011 is going to be a great year, not without challenges and heartaches but one filled with friends who support through all that we face.
